11	Vast Majority of Tier 2 & 3 Parents Are Not Engaged
	Your foray into parental engagement measures verifies your fear that parents want the outcomes, but don't want to be involved in / engaged with the details. Your analysis suggests that 64% of parents are unaware of student interventions, methods and tools being used and impacts being produced. They are aware that their students are struggling, but have very little knowledge of school plans / goals for their children.
12	Rigorous Tracking / Reporting of Intervention Results Seldom Occurs
	Your review of follow-up analyses and actions taken to track impacts of core instruction, interventions and even standard curriculum modifications is disappointing. Less than 10% of actions taken have any sort of follow-up review, and most of those are subjective rather than based on available data.
